Buyer Information

Barkala Alpacas was established in 2000, and since that time bloodlines have been incorporated which feature many recognised as contributors to the advancement of the alpaca industry. The herd comprises mainly white and light fawn, and now reflects the approach of producing robust animals with good frames and growth rates, early maturity, and fleece which fits processors' requirements; the type of animal which would suit the large mass production commercial flock of the future.

While Barkala animals have had their share of success in the show ring and fleece competitions the major contribution has come from the stud's chief sire, Halcyon Humdinger. Humdinger was one of the first animals tested for fleece density and at that time was noted as the leader in this category. In one year of the AAA's innovative AGE genetic evaluation program he was placed at number 46 out of 747 stud males tested for progeny which met defined quality markers. His influence in the Barkala herd shows in the long, soft fleece and excellent growth rates of his progeny.

Ann & Vince have decided to place most of the Barkala herd on the market and cease operations in the alpaca industry. There are mixed emotions about the decision, but they are based largely on factors related to health, family considerations and the passing years.

Winding Up

Alpaca prices are not high at the moment and the prices in the catalogue reflect current market conditions. There will not be an official sale day and prospective buyers are invited to contact Ann and Vince for inspection and/or enquiries.

Most of the females are not mated. This was purposely determined to allow buyers to have their own choice of sire. Barkala is happy to have females mated to Humdinger or our other registered sire Barkala Halifax free of service fee.

For unmated females, sale males and wethers the terms of sale are completion fourteen (14) days from notification to buy, with payment in full to be made and the animal(s) to be collected by that time.

For females held at Barkala for mating a 20% deposit is required. Pregnancy will be considered confirmed after two successful spitoffs, and the balance of payment and collection of the female or females will be fourteen (14) days following pregnancy confirmation.

All prices include GST, but not transfer fees.
